

How is your map of your neighborhood looking? Are you adding more information to it?

This week we are studying the story of Zacchaeus. Z was a man who had probably harmed people. He was a tax collector and likely took more money than he was supposed to take from people.

When Jesus meets Z, Z turns his life around and wants to repay the people he had harmed. He became follower of Jesus!

Do you have neighbors who you have harmed? Perhaps thought badly about them? How could you restore a good relationship with your neighbors?

During the church season of Lent we will learn together how we can love God, ourselves and especially our neighbors!

The cover image is called "Jesus and Zacchaeus" by Japanese artist Soichi Watanabe. He tells people that his art is "my own humble response to God's work in my life." The artist shows the joy of Zacchaeus in the form of a yellow flower. Another art work by Soichi is called "Reconciliation."

This week, try making your own art about God at work in your life.

I wonder what the characters in today's Bible story thought about...
