The Same, but Different

Today churches all around the world are celebrating World Communion Sunday. Some will use grape juice and others will use wine. The bread will be made from corn, rice, wheat and even potatoes! Many languages will say together, "The body of Christ, broken for you." Jesus taught his friends about sharing this meal so they could remember the message he gave them about God's love and forgiveness.

Each church does things a little differently. Churches believe different things about what is important and how to live God's message. They all agree however, that God loves us and Jesus teaches us about God's love.

Sunday School Offering

Each week in Sunday School we talk about what we have to offer to God. It could be helping with washing the dishes, sitting with a lonely kid in the cafeteria, or making an extra effort to be kind to a sibling. As we pass the basket around the circle we offer our commitments to God by placing a stone in the basket with each other's gifts that week.
